Get out your hammers and construction hats for the next CATS Conference to help build lasting foundations for change. Help us explore how children and adults can lend a helping hand in laying down the bricks to meaningful partnerships.

Through the CATS 2015 theme, Children & Adults, Partners for Change, collaboration and partnership between adults and children will be addressed in a variety of ways throughout the week. Each day of the programme will focus on different levels of building the partnership: the individual, the group, the community, organisations, and society.

As the week develops, the programme will take participants through the building process starting with drawing the blueprint together, establishing the foundation, building the walls and roof, and lastly looking further out into the community.

Join us at CATS 2015 and help build a solid foundation for children's participation in society.
